Geneva Concours d'Elegance Cancelled for 2020

The Geneva Concours d'Elegance, one of the Midwest's premier antique, classic and special interest automobiles shows, has been cancelled for this year. Originally scheduled for Sunday, August 23, 2020, on the streets of historic downtown Geneva, Illinois, planners are already looking forward to conducting the show next year.

According to director John Barrett, "As we navigate through the on-going health concerns related to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Directors of the Geneva Concours d'Elegance have arrived at the difficult decision to cancel our event this year. We realize that this cancellation will be a big disappointment to many of us, however, the health and welfare of our Concours spectators, volunteers, sponsors, merchants, exhibitors, and the City of Geneva remains our number one priority. We are confident we are doing the right thing."

The next Geneva Concours d'Elegance will take place on Sunday, August 22, 2021. We will celebrate the features as planned for this year and once again showcase the styling, engineering, and cultural significance of the automobile. The beneficiary of the 2021 event will remain LivingWell Cancer Resource Center now a part of NW Medicine.

This would have been the 16th annual show. Thank you to all those who have made the Concours a noteworthy event. For more information, please visit our website at:
